

GUIDELINES FOR HONORS SEMINARS

These two-unit honors seminars will give students, enrolled in the College of Letters and Science Honors Program, an opportunity to explore research in various disciplines and consider advanced studies beyond college.

GUIDELINES

Only current Letters and Science Honors Program students may take honors seminars - INT 184/84.

Lower-division seminars (INT 84) are limited to lower-division students. Upper-division seminars (INT 184) are limited to upper-division students. (Exceptions are at the discretion of the professor.)

To earn honors credit, seminars must be completed with a letter grade of B or better.
No additional units are given for this honors coursework.

Honors seminars are courses automatically granted honors credit. This means "course honors" will not be designated on transcripts for these courses, but they will count toward completion of the Honors Program, provided the grade earned is satisfactory. Consult the "Curriculum & Contracts" page of the Honors Program website for more information on enrolling in honors seminars (see link to site below).
